The City of Goshen's Permeable Pavement Projects

Since 2010, the City of Goshen has embraced the idea of permeable pavement and has incorporated permeable pavers into six publicly visible projects:

- ◆ The Millrace Dam Headgates Parking Lot (2010)
- ◆ The Millrace Powerhouse Outdoor Seating Area (2011)
- ◆ The NIPSCO Parking Lot (2012)
- ◆ Park Avenue Reconstruction (2013)
- ◆ Jefferson Street Reconstruction (2013)
- ◆ Madison Street Reconstruction by the Hawks Building (2015)

Many City departments have worked together to make these projects successful and continue to work together towards incorporating permeable pavers into future projects. The City of Goshen is committed to making sustainable stormwater management decisions when designing public projects.
